Signs that look alike: orders vs warnings

Start with the shape: circles give orders, triangles warn and rectangles mostly inform. Then check the colour and the detail that sets each pair apart.

⇆ ORDERS VS WARNINGS

Give way to traffic on the major road

VS

Stop and give way

GIVE WAY: let traffic on the major road go first, stopping only if you need to. STOP: you must stop at the line, even if the road is clear.

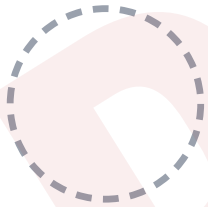

Roundabout

VS

Mini-roundabout (give way to traffic from the right)

The triangle warns that a roundabout is ahead. The blue circle is an order: a mini-roundabout, give way to traffic from the right.

Ahead only

VS

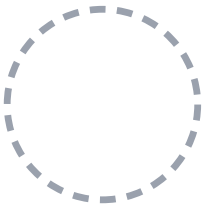

One-way traffic

Blue circle: an order, you must go ahead. Blue rectangle: information, the road is one-way.

DRAFT

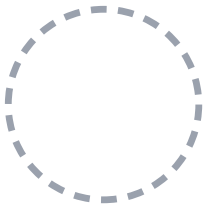

Signs that look alike: entry, vehicles and speed

⇆ NO ENTRY, NO VEHICLES AND SPEED

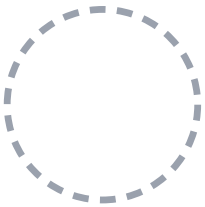

No entry for vehicular traffic

VS

No vehicles except bicycles being pushed

Red circle, white bar: no entry for vehicles (often the end of a one-way street). White circle, red ring: no vehicles except bicycles being pushed.

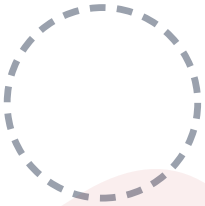

No vehicles except bicycles being pushed

VS

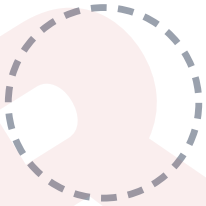

No motor vehicles

An empty red ring bans all vehicles. With a car and a motorcycle inside, it bans motor vehicles only.

Maximum speed

VS

National speed limit applies

A number in a red ring is the maximum speed. The white circle with a black diagonal stripe means the national limit for your vehicle and that road applies.

DRAFT

🕮 SOURCES The Highway Code, Traffic signs · Know Your Traffic Signs (DfT), The signing system; regulatory and warning signs